

Norine Schwarzchild Vice President of Human Resources

Norine Schwarzchild serves as Vice President of Human Resources for the National Organization for Rare Disorders (NORD®), bringing over 20 years of human resources experience to her role. Before joining NORD, Norine held HR leadership roles in both private and nonprofit organizations in industries ranging from pharmaceutical services to international education. Norine is responsible for overseeing all aspects of human resources management, including hiring, engaging and developing NORD's talented staff.

Norine is dedicated to NORD's mission to improve the lives of rare disease patients and their families. Seeing her mother lose her battle with scleroderma only strengthened her commitment.

Norine earned her Master's in human resources management from Manhattanville College and her Bachelor of Arts in political science from SUNY Purchase.
